

New Jersey Monuments to Migration and Labor is coming to New Brunswick.

MONUMENTS TO MIGRATION AND LABOR NJ

Here are five amazing ways your organization, community group, or school can interact, celebrate, and learn!

BRING the “What is a Monument?” or “What is a Monarch Butterfly?” curriculum to your classroom or community space

Connect your social studies, art, and science curriculum to public history, public art, and civic science.

HOST an In-Person Symposium with the Artist

Invite Monument Artist Chat Travieso and the coLAB Arts Education Team to your school or community space for an interactive lesson and activity.

TRAVEL to the Monument

Organize a site visit to War Memorial Park in New Brunswick where the coLAB Arts Education Team will guide participants through the monument with an interactive activity.

VOLUNTEER for one of our Community Monument Installation Sessions

Lend us a hand this June in painting, planting, and pruning our new monument and the included gardens.

ATTEND the New Jersey Monuments to Migration and Labor Symposium, October 15-17, 2026

Join the NJMML team in New Brunswick at the Zimmerli Art Museum and additional sites for workshops, seminars, tours, and live performances connecting public history and public art.
